

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

DavRail Inc. Announces strategic partnership with the renowned Affective Rail & Plant

March 6, 2025 | Fort Worth, Texas

DavRail Inc., a specialty provider of Maintenance of Way equipment and locomotive maintenance solutions based in Fort Worth, Texas, is thrilled to announce a strategic partnership with the renowned Affective Rail & Plant. This exclusive collaboration grants DavRail distribution rights to Affective Rail & Plant's innovative rail handling and logistics equipment in North and South America.

DavRail, part of the Davoil Group of Companies, is bringing Affective Rail & Plant's wholly unique approach to Center Lift track maintenance and revolutionary low-cost ballast and roadbed management techniques to the forefront of the Americas' Maintenance of Way market.

What Does the Partnership Mean?

Under the leadership of President Andrew Davis, DavRail will use its national sales program to tactically promote and support Affective Rail & Plant's MOW solutions. These new products will join DavRail's existing leasing and sales portfolio.

"Our partnership with Affective Rail & Plant's owners, Anthony Stewart and Billy Jordan, is one based on mutual trust and admiration, and we're proud to call them friends. We intend to capitalize on both of our organizations' depth in railroading and Maintenance of Way (MOW) experience, and we anticipate that we will profoundly change the very nature of the industry here in the Americas" said Davis.

The announcement comes on the heels of Affective Rail & Plant's latest product launch of their groundbreaking TRACS machine. The Turnout Remover And Carrier System (TRACS) offers a paradigm shift in track installation technology by eliminating the need for temporary systems installation or manual handling, all while providing a faster and safer delivery method. Through targeted repair capabilities and reduced network disruption, the TRACS machine offers dramatic time and cost savings.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

DavRail Inc. Announces strategic partnership with the renowned Affective Rail & Plant

Mr. Anthony Stewart, Affective Rail & Plant Partner & CEO said, "The success of TRACS underscores Affective's dedication to providing cutting-edge innovations and addresses the evolving needs of the rail industry. We are focused on revolutionizing MOW techniques, delivering excellence to the rail industry, and we're excited about the appointment of DavRail as our exclusive strategic partner throughout North and South America. DavRail will play a key role in our international strategic growth plans."

"Our commitment to innovation and efficiency drives us to continually seek out and implement new solutions," said Mr. Billy Jordan, Affective Rail & Plant's Partner & Director of Specialized Plant & Development. "By utilizing this advanced equipment, we have not only enhanced operational efficiency but also provided the industry with a significantly more cost-effective and flexible installation process."

Why Affective Rail & Plant?

In just a few years, Affective Rail & Plant's contractor equipment has transformed the Australian rail industry, driven operational efficiencies, optimized budgets, and enhanced safety by pioneering developments in MOW technology. DavRail is eager to introduce these advancements into its home markets, and is confident this partnership will profoundly expand both its product portfolio and service capabilities. This synergistic collaboration is a natural fit, as both companies are committed to revolutionizing the rail industry with integrity, excellence, and innovation.
